Man of month

“The first Member of TSDV”

By AnGQ

Last month, we have celebrated a very important anniversary – the TSDV's birthday. Towards this special occasion, we have an interview with a very special person, the first member of our company – Mrs Nguyen Thi Minh Phuong.

Interviewer: As we know, you are one of the first staffs of our company, TSDV's 4th anniversary is also rapidly approaching. Would you mind sharing with us your feelings about this special coming occasion?

MrsPhuong: I am very happy and long for the event since 2011 is the first year when our company is going to celebrate it.

Interviewer: During the past 4 years, have you got any unforgettable memories with TSDV?

MrsPhuong: I started working at our company in May, 2007. Before we moved to our own working place, Toshiba's Vietnam representative had allowed us to use their office. It was located in HCO building, 44B Ly Thuong Kiet street. At that time, there were only 2 people, Mr Tominaga - the General Director and me, we felt very empty. However, on July 1st, 2007, when we hold a party to welcome about 20 new members in our first batch – batch 1, the feeling that we had faced before quickly disappeared. This happy feeling was an unforgettable moment.

Interviewer: 4 years have gone by, our company witnessed a lot of changes. Several batches were established with new members. Do you have any comments about our them?

MrsPhuong: Yes, every time we recruit a new batch, I have a chance to meet newcomers. They are excellent, active and kind. Some of them even have extraordinary talents. However, some members are a little quiet and introvert. In my opinion, we should be more dynamic, especially in team building events. Therefore, we can create a cheerful working environment.

Interviewer: Working with Mr Tominaga from the beginning, and now Mr Tabé, what do you think about their working attitude as well as the Japanese's?

MrsPhuong: Before joining here, I had worked for some Japanese companies such as: Yamaha, Asahi Intecc. In general, people coming from Japan are punctual. They never break the rules, always have plans and try to follow them, so does our directors, Mr Tominaga and Mr Tabé. We can learn a lot from them in order to work more effectively.

Interviewer: Have you ever been in bad mood when working here?

MrsPhuong: Yes. In early 2010, a number of employees decided to leave. Whenever I had to bring the resignation to Mr Tominaga, he was extremely sad. His sadness made me feel very bad. It seemed like we lost something very special to us. I hope all our staffs will contribute to the company for a long time in the future.

Interviewer: Do you notice that we had some changes recently? Could you share your career plan in the future?

MrsPhuong: Yes, we saw a lot of changes in our company: new plans, new improvements and so on. We should perform well at jobs in order to dedicate more to the development of TSDV. I will continue working here for years. We have a good environment with kind people, I do not want to leave and I also do not want to see anyone leaving.

Interviewer: Thank you for this exciting interview. Wish you all the best in your life.

That the sunbeam went through racemes of Red Phoenix woke the summer up. In former times when I was in school, the summer always made me excited to wait for a long holiday. And now I had that feeling again when my company held a sea travel on the occasion of 4-year anniversary of its establishment.

The destination is Ha Long Bay- the World natural heritage in Vietnam, which has been recognized by UNESCO in 1994 and once again in 2000. According to local legend, when the Vietnamese were fighting the invaders, the family of dragons which were sent by Gods turned into the islands and islets dotting the bay, linking together to form a great wall against the invaders. The place where the mother dragon descended was named Ha Long.

At 6:30AM, everyone gathered in full numbers in front of the company. Then at 7:45 AM, the car started moving and the trip officially began. The car took us to Thanh Tri bridge towards Hai Duong city, where we would take a rest and have breakfast in 30 minutes. Most people on the car, whose faces were so eager, were very young and just joined the company. Then the fact that the laughing, joking, singing etc resounded made me relieve my student life.

Ha Long bay

We enjoyed the lunch with a lot of seafood such as shrimp, fish, squid etc to prepare for the next travel. After checking into the hotel, we were on a boat to the Gulf at 13:30 PM.

Ha Long Bay looked like a fairy wonder, as beautiful as the praise of Nguyen Trai in his verse : "rock wonder in the sky". From above looking down at Ha Long Bay, it was like a giant picture with thousands of islands, which were like thousands of pearls that the dragons were spraying. A coastal man like me was also taken the breath away when being ahead of Ha Long.

Ha Long had nearly large and small 2000 islands, so not all of them were named. Pointing to some distant island, Quyet – a member of TJ team asked the tour guider about their names. When realizing that these islands havent been named yet, he gave his own opinion confidently: "So from now it will be called Quyet No1, and the other will be Quyet No2...".

Everyone burst out laughing immediately around the ship, maybe he wanted to be recorded in Guinness Book of Vietnam.

That day was rainy, so a tour guide informed that we might not go to the Gulf. Everyone began to worry because Ha Long Bay without sailing to the Gulf didn't mean a real travel anymore. Thankfully, when we're nearly close to the destination, the rain stopped and the trip would take place as the schedule.

About 11 AM we reached to Ha Long. The air here was fresh and the scenery was so beautiful. One side was covered with the sea while one side was full of green pines. It's really different from a stuffy crowded Hanoi.

TSDV Life

The boat continued weaving between islands and the new scenery came up. We went to Sung Sot Cave – one of the largest and most beautiful caves in Ha Long Bay. When going into the cave, we thought it was rather small but contrary to our thought, the more we discovered, the more imposing scene was extended. That's why this cave had such impressive name.

Leaving The Sung Sot cave, we went to the Titop island – an island named as the labour hero of Russia and Vietnam Giec Man Ti Top – to swim and play beach sports. At 18:30PM, everyone returned to the boat for dinner. After that, we climbed up to the boat for chatting.

Shock cave

the night-life and food of Ha Long like seafood, seafood soup... Maybe I should not tell about this part anymore otherwise many people would feel jealous.

Next day, at 7 Am, after breakfast, according to our schedule we went to the beach to join the collective actions. The first game was tug of war. 4 teams were set up and I myself claimed to be the arbitration. After my scream “1...2...3”, the members of the two teams tried their best to pull the opponent toward him. Under the summer sun, the sweat rolled down on the faces but the smiles still showed up. At that time, there was no distinction between the boss and the staff. Indeed, these moments turned chances to help people in the company understand each other more.

After the game, we were free to have our own schedule. Some went back to the hotel, some went to the beach and some chose shopping in the Ha Long market. Going out meant bringing gifts to friends and family, right?

We checked out at 11:30 AM then had lunch. 13 PM, the car rolled back to Ha Noi. What is a great trip in Ha Long Bay! Memories with everyone will remain forever on my mind. Definitely I will be back here one day. So, how about you? If you are considering where to travel, just choose Ha Long Bay in Vietnam. Come and get your own feeling!

The picture of Android

by HungNM

Since the date of introduction, Android had growing with incredible speed. This article will show an overview picture of this platform.

What's Android?

As the Wikipedia's previous definition, Android is an operating system for mobile devices using Linux kernel, but I prefer to call Android is a platform. In addition to operating system functions, Android includes middleware and key applications that make it more powerful and more flexible.

The colorful picture of Android

Red Color: Linux kernel – (The) Heart of Android

Like human being, android have a heart to live. Android relies on Linux kernel for core system services such as security, memory management, process management, network stack, and driver model. The kernel also acts as an abstraction layer between the hardware and the rest of the software stack. The first step to embed Android to a new device is adding drivers for new hardware to kernel source code. So the kernel source code is getting bigger because of drivers of various manufacture.

Yellow color:(Part) Dalvik virtual machine

As you know, nowadays (the) Java language is popular (all) over the world. This yellow color(part) “Dalvik virtual machine” is the bridge for the Java applications to run in C/C++ libraries.

Technology

Green Color(Part): Libraries for users

If kernel is the heart, Libraries is the leg of Android for applications to stand. Android includes a set of C/C++ libraries used by various components of the Android system. These capabilities are exposed to

Some of the core libraries are listed below:

- Media Libraries - based on PacketVideo's OpenCORE; the libraries support playback and recording of many popular audio and video formats, as well as static image files, including MPEG4, H.264, MP3, AAC, AMR, JPG, and PNG
- Surface Manager - manages access to the display subsystem and seamlessly composites 2D and 3D graphic layers from multiple applications
- LibWebCore - a modern web browser engine which powers both the Android browser and an embeddable web view
- FreeType - bitmap and vector font rendering
- SQLite - a powerful and lightweight relational database engine available to all applications

Blue Color : Application Framework – “Vast Ocean” for application developers

Back to the past when Microsoft .NET was not presented. Creating a program in Windows is very difficult and complicated. Microsoft (also) wants to develop a framework to help programmers. It help creating a windows program easier and faster than ever.

Like .NET, Android application framework offers developers the ability to build extremely rich and innovative applications. The application architecture is designed to simplify the reuse of components; any application can publish its capabilities and any other application may then make use of those capabilities (subject to security constraints enforced by the framework). This same mechanism allows components to be replaced by the user.

The number of Android applications is not compared with Apple iOS. So this framework is “Vast Ocean” for application developer(s). If you are good at “swimming”, this “Vast Ocean” is for you to make application(s) and earn money.

In the mornings of every Tuesday and Thursday, our members go to work with backpack. It contains equipments: racket, clothes, shoes, ...And as soon as finishing works, we buy breads and milk to eat before joining competition. At 7 pm, we're in the yard. And until 9pm, it's finished. Sometimes, it's tired due to work forces and you seem to burn yourself but when you join competition battle, you can exhaust them. First day, I remember that I played very bad even haven't got any skill. But now, I maybe said that I believe my abilities and face to face playing to other member. Badminton skills are easy, you can ask former generation and they're ready to sharing them. Boys and girls of our club are very friendly and quite pretty. The fight by couple occurs and other members just expect to played. When you're fighting, you don't care about worried, stress and your work, only focus on rivals and move follow by dimension of ball. Badminton is kind of sport engages every body and nothing to hinder you joining it.

Japanese

Many of you guys who have read the Japanese manga Doraemon will definitely remember the “carp streamer”. It's the typical representation of Golden Week in Japan. So what is Golden Week? It is the time during the end of April through beginning of May which contains many Japan's public holidays. The first holiday in Golden Week is April 29th, that was the birthday of the former emperor Shouwa. It is called Shouwa-no-hi, which means Showa Day. The second holiday is May 3rd when people celebrate the day that new Japanese constitution was carried into effect in 1947. Japanese call it Kenpou – kinenbi, which means Constitution Memorial Day. The following holiday day during Golden Week is May 4th – the Greenery Day (midori-no-hi). In Greenery Day, people show their appreciation to nature and plants. The last holiday in Golden Week is Children's Day (Kodomo-no-hi) on May 5th. It's also called “Boys' Festival” (Tango-no-sekku) - a day to pray for the healthy growth of boys. On this day, Japanese families usually display a helmet replica or samurai dolls inside their houses and hang up carp streamers outside. The carp symbolizes successes of children in their future.

This vacation is similar to the holiday around April 30th and May 1st in Vietnam when people wait for with their eagerness and happy moods. Some offices even close for whole week. It's the longest holiday of the year so this is the great time for Japanese to go on long travels. Hotels, airports and stations usually overloaded although prices of transport tickets, hotel reservations... increase quite much this time. Tourism places in Asian countries, or Hawaii, Guam, coastland cities in America such as Los Angeles, Seattle, San Francisco are also full of traveler.
